This is a kind of policy which now a days has become very common among all brokers in India.

At Ashika, we adopted this policy to provide extra comfort level to our valuable clients in their trading activity.

What does T+5 mean?

This means Trading day and five more trading session.

In which segment this will be applicable for?

This will be only applicable for CAPITAL MARKET segment.

What is the process for T+5 policy at Ashika?

Normally, if a Client takes position on capital market segment, he has to make payment before pay-in i.e. on T+2nd day.

If in case the client is unable to pay on or before pay-in time then this policy comes into action. Under this policy the client can carry his position till four more trading sessions subject to his proper margin available with Ashika. If the client is not able to pay even on T+4th day, his respective RM will intimate the client via SMS and email to clear his position either by selling or by making payment.

On T+5th day, his RM will wait till 11:00 AM for the client's positive response related to payment, if not then entire position of the respective client in capital market segment gets squared up by HO to clear the debit balance of that client.
